DRIVEN BY COMMITMENT

Driven by a commitment to bold, expressive California whiskey, we've built the largest inventory of aging whiskey in the state—despite being limited to producing just four barrels a day. In 2025, a decade after laying down our first barrel, we moved operations to Mare Island, north of San Francisco, where we've tripled capacity to 14 barrels a day. Still small by industry standards—where many distilleries produce well over 300 barrels daily—we choose to go slow, with intent. We pride ourselves in our Northern California regionality and each choice we make is deliberating made to craft a distinct whiskey that is smooth, complex and full of grain character.

We believe in giving back, and we're helping restore forests. We support Save the Redwoods League, a California-based nonprofit dedicated to protecting and restoring the redwood forests that define our home. And through our partnership with Trees for the Future, an international reforestation organization, we've planted over 1.7 million trees—with more going in the ground every year.
